A PUBLICATION FOR THE BOROUGH OF COLLINGSWOOD

6 TIMES A YEAR!

Town Crier ads drive your business home

We'll get right to the point – advertising with the Town Crier gets your business seen by every home, apartment complex and business in town. The Borough delivers almost 8,000 copies of the local publication six times a year, and folks rely on the Crier for info on everything Collingswood.

“It gives me the full scope of everything going on in town, I never miss it,” said resident Kelly McMahon.

“Really stand out!
Advertise with a free standing insert (flyer) in the Town Crier for just $600. Great for coupons, announcements, anything!
Call for details.”

There's no better bargain for getting your business noticed by residents. Town Crier readers are typically vested in the town and likely to patronize local merchants, restaurants and services. Our regular advertisers know the value of being seen in the Town Crier.

“Very few media outlets provoke the response that we receive from our regular advertising in the Town Crier,” said 1st Colonial National bank President Gerard Banmiller.

If you decide to advertise in Collingswood's official town paper you'll save even more by placing ads multiple times. Issues are typically published near the first week in March, mid May, late June, late August, late October and early December – focusing on main events in town like the May Fair and Holiday Parade.

Your advertisement must come as a complete, ready to print ad in JPEG or PDF format at least one week before printing. Ads shown on this page are only for general reference. For more information on ad design and placement, call Cass Duffey at 856-854-0720 x135. Make checks payable to Collingswood Partners.
